SYNOPSIS

When Leonard wakes to find himself tied to a horse, a noose around his neck, dead bodies on all sides, and a gash on his head that prevents him from remembering any of it, he sets off to find help for the unconscious survivors. His journey won't be easy, as he meets a new kid in town and a sinister villain who both have pasts that may put Leonard in peril. One thing is certain, though: before it's over, these characters and more will all play a part when The Mustachioed Bandit Meets His End!

PRODUCTION DETAILS

Filming lasted a grueling twelve days in the desert. Over thirty cast and crew members were the last to live and film on the isolated "Outlaw Josey Wales" set before it burned down in 2006. The nearby "Gunsmoke" set is also featured.

STILLS FROM THE FEATURE

THE DIRECTOR Paul Blair

Upon moving to the Los Angeles area in 2004, Paul began a year of Western research, fell in love with low-budget 60's and 70's Euro-westerns, wrote this script, and began enlisting help. Paul is currently employed locally as Director of New Technology for SDI Media, the world's largest subtitling and dubbing company, and is pursuing multiple film projects.

PROJECT DETAILS

Produced on a legendary $15,000 budget, "The Mustachioed Bandit Meets His End" is a complex mix of Western, Drama, Action, and Mystery. It can't be missed by serious Western buffs who love the pace and feel of 1960s Spaghetti Westerns.
